It's All About The Air We Breathe

NJ TRANSIT The Way To Go GREEN

NJ TRANSIT is inviting the business community to “go green” and do your share for cleaner air by encouraging your employees to take public transit on days when high levels of air pollution are predicted. Through the OzonePass program, NJ TRANSIT will share the fare with your employees who leave their cars at home and commute to and from work on its bus, train and light rail services. OzonePass, a special $2.70 round trip ticket, is valid on forecasted Air Quality Action Days during ozone season, May 12 through September 5, 2008. Participating in the OzonePass program is an environmentally responsible means of meeting the commuting needs of your employees and promoting clean air.

Ozone Pollution Affects Everyone

An invisible gas, ground-level ozone is created when a mixture of pollutants such as fumes from vehicles, lawnmowers, barbecues, or emissions from power plants and industrial facilities react in sunlight on hot summer days. In the upper atmosphere, ozone forms a shield that protects the earth from the sun’s ultraviolet rays. At ground level, ozone is a pollutant that can cause shortness of breath, coughing, wheezing, headaches and eye and throat irritation. People with respiratory diseases, such as emphysema, bronchitis, pneumonia and asthma have more trouble breathing when the air is polluted. These effects are worse in children, the elderly and people who work outdoors.

Join The Fight That’s Right Become a Partner in Prevention

When join with NJ TRANSIT in the fight for cleaner air and take advantage of OzonePass, you become a member of the Air Quality Partnership. The partnership is an organization of over 500 businesses, non-profits and government agencies throughout New Jersey, working to foster awareness of the ozone pollution problem. Its mission is to encourage corporate and individual actions to reduce ozone and other harmful pollutants from the air, thus decreasing the negative effects on public health and the quality of life. As a partner, you can purchase a limited number of passes at the start of ozone season and distribute them to employees on Air Quality Action Days. You can subsidize the pass in its entirety or sell it to your employees for the $2.70 round trip cost. This year “go green” and join in the efforts to rid the environment of poisonous pollutants. For a healthier tomorrow, join the Air Quality Partnership today. (See back of pamphlet for application to join the Air Quality Partnership).

Air Quality Action Day Alerts

The day before unhealthy ozone pollution levels are expected, the Air Quality Partnership will notify members by e-mail or fax. You can then make OzonePass available to the employees who will use it to commute on NJ TRANSIT instead of driving their cars and contributing to the pollution buildup. Partnership members can order anytime during the ozone season by simply completing the attached order form and sending it along with a company check for the entire amount of the order. A maximum of 250 passes (500 tickets) can be purchased for each worksite during the ozone season. Each pass consists of two one-way tickets to complete the round trip. At the end of the season, you can return all remaining unused passes for a full credit.
